This walk follows a 2km (1.2 mile) section of the National Cycle Network Route 27 The Devon Coast to Coast from the former Bridestowe Railway Station to Lydford. This surfaced route is built along a stretch of disused railway that crosses the open fields of Fernworthy Down with superb views across the Tamar Valley to Cornwall.

Car parking is in roadside lay-bys at each end of the route.

The Devon Coast to Coast cycle route runs from Ilfracombe on Devon's north coast to Plymouth in the south, largely tracing the course of former railway lines. This section of the route is south of the Prewley to Meldon Viaduct section and is currently linked to it by quiet roads. The route as a whole is continuously being improved so keep a look out for new links.
